

Contributors

Jeffrey H. Cohen is a graduate student in the Department of Anthropology at Indiana University.

Jayne Howell is a graduate student in the Department of Anthropology at State University of New York, Stonybrook. She is currently doing research on women and the role of education in the central valley of Oaxaca, Mexico.

Miguel Leatham is a graduate student in the Department of Anthropology at the University of New Mexico.

Phillip H. McArthur is a graduate student at the Folklore Institute, Indiana University.

Laura Marcus is a graduate student at the Folklore Institute, Indiana University.

Shanny L. Peer is an instructor (and soon-to-be assistant professor) of French at the University of Vermont. She is completing her Ph.D. in French Studies at New York University. Her dissertation is on "Representations of Tradition in the 1937 Paris International Exposition."

Warren E. Roberts is professor of Folklore at the Folklore Institute, Indiana University. He has published numerous articles and books on various aspects of folklife, material culture, and folk narrative.

Rory Turner is a graduate student at the Folklore Institute, Indiana University.

John B. Wolford is a doctoral candidate in Folklore and American Studies at Indiana University. He is currently writing his dissertation on the regional culture of the Shakers of South Union, Kentucky.